

GRAVEYARD INSCRIPTIONS AT GRANGE CHURCH

By Noel Dempsey and Minie O'Brien

In 2015, a survey was carried out of the graveyard at Saints Patrick and Brigid Church, Grange, Co Limerick over a period of months up to mid-June, 2015. Minie O'Brien drew up a map of the graveyard upon which each distinct burial 'plot' is assigned a number from 1 to 172. As well, graves in the recent extension to the graveyard are indicated.

The inscriptions were recorded as accurately as could be deciphered, where they existed at the time. A few of the headstones had crumbled, and the writing was obliterated. The headstones are shown on the map at approximate locations. There are numerous large earth-bound stone 'grave markers' scattered around the burial ground, especially in "Section D", these stones are also indicated on the map.

The oldest recorded burial was John Dondon, 1741, aged 18 (No 112). A fifth of the headstones record the names of people who were born in the 1700s, the earliest being James Power, who was born in 1709 and died in 1784 at the age of 75 (No 102).

The Arma Christi symbols on the headstone of John Grady who died on 8th December 1818 aged 10 years (No 161) are by stonemason, John Grady, probably from Knockainey as the carving appears to be of a similar high quality as examples attributed to him in neighbouring graveyards. In 1872, William Riggs restored the inscription on their vault (No 74); the stonemason was J Doherty, Carey's Road, Limerick. The name of the stonemason was recorded in very few instances.

The inclusion of a townland to the inscription is a valuable resource for genealogists. Townlands were spelt in numerous ways like Rahin, Rehen, Rahan and Cahir, Caher and the spelling of names varied such as "Jone Flynn" who died in 1781 (No 102).

- 62 This monument is erected by his sorrowing brothers to the Very Revd. Michael Moriarty Dean of St Patricks Rochdale Lancashire who died fortified by the rites of holy church at Nice France Feb 16th 1897 in the 68th year of his age and 46th of his sacred ministry. In him were united all the qualities of goodness which make the priest beloved by his people to great humility, charity and untiring zeal were added great learning and eloquence. The noble monument of his own creation, the mission he founded, the church he raised to religion and dedicated to the national saint, the schools he built for the children of his flock and above all the spirit of piety and charity with which he imbued their hearts, these all remain to furnish a far greater record of his talents and virtues. Sweet Jesus have mercy on his soul. Amen. Tablet in front of headstone. In loving memory of Thomas Barry Moriarty MD Brigade Surgeon RAMC who died 14th October 1912 aged 75. RIP.
